

ATLANTA DAILY INTELLIGENCER-EXTRA.

ATLANTA, GA., DECEMBER 10, 1864.

TO OUR PATRONS.

In a few days we will again in this city resume the regular daily and weekly publication of the Intelligencer. Nearly all the material for the same has arrived. Until then we will give them only a synopsis daily of current events.

THE MAILS.

We understand from our efficient Post master, Col. Howard, that we will have daily-mails from up the Macon Road, as well as on the West Point Road, and in a few days also on the Georgia Road.

TELEGRAPH.

We have been informed that in the course of ten or twelve days, telegraphic communication will be resumed between here and Macon, when we will furnish our readers with daily press reports, as usual.

To our country friends who have been fortunate enough to escape the clutches of the Yankee hordes, and who have any produce to dispose of, we would advise them to bring it in, as there is a great scarcity of everything in the city. Col. Glenn, Commandant of the Post, has given us assurance that their teams will not be molested.

GEORGIA RAILROAD.—The Augusta Constitutionalist says: "We learn this road will be complete and in running order to Atlanta in forty days, if not interrupted."

We think it due to the public that the Government should lend every assistance requisite to the earliest possible completion of the road, in view of the fact that thousands of exiles may then return to their long lost homes.

THE CITY.

We doubt if the annals of history can furnish a passage in regard to the destruction of property as our city presents. For the information of those who are absent—we will give them a hurried synopsis.

Whitehall street from Roark's corner up to Peachtree street is one entire mass of ruin.

Alabama street from Bridge to Pryor is destroyed. The property standing embraces the block of buildings from the Planter's Hotel to the Confederate smoke house.

On Pryor street the buildings from Hunter street are all standing.

Lloyd street.—With the exception of the block on which the Washington Hall was situated, the buildings are all standing.

Hunter street.—From Whitehall to the Court House and beyond, all the houses are standing.

Mitchell street.—All the residences on this street, with few exceptions, are standing.

Marietta street.—From Dr. Powell's residence nearly all the houses are standing.

Peachtree street.—From Wesley Chapel nearly all the houses are standing.

Washington street.—From Col. Calhoun's residence to Knox's lot all the houses are in a good state of preservation.

Decatur street.—From Hunnicutt & Taylor's Drug Store up to Masonic Hall the buildings have been destroyed. The balance of the street from the Masonic building, with some exceptions, the residences are standing. The residences on this street in the rear of the Trout House are all destroyed.

McDonough street.—With the exception of Judge Clark's house and two others, all the buildings are standing.

Walton street.—Nearly all the dwellings on this street are standing.

All the churches with the exception of the Episcopal Church, on Walton street, are preserved.

The depots of the four connecting roads, together with the car shed, are destroyed.

We have thus only given a description of those portions of the city we have visited, and will in a future number notice more. To our absent citizens we would say return as soon as possible, and with one mind commence to extricate ourselves from the ruin detailed upon us by the God-forsaken, miserable and deluded Yankee crew.

On yesterday we had the pleasure of a visit from Gen. Tyler, at present commanding post at West Point.

We understand from a reliable source that an Express between here and Griffin will shortly be started.

We are indebted to Mr. Mitchell, of this place, for a late Augusta paper, for which he will please accept our thanks.

A large lot of Yankee prisoners arrived at Augusta from Waynesboro', a few days ago, and were sent to Columbia, S. C., for safe keeping.

Vice-President, Alexander H. Stephens, is at present in Richmond, presiding over the Confederate Senate.

Gov. Joseph E. Brown is at present sojourning at Savannah, Geo.

MOBILE, Dec. 3.—A special to the Advertiser and Register from Senatobia, December 2d, says the St. Louis Republican of the 26th ult., and Memphis Bulletin of the 30th are received.

The New York dispatches of the 24th says it is a fixed fact that S. P. Chase is to be Chief Justice.

Gen. Lee is contracting his lines to send troops to Georgia.

Gen. Early's headquarters are between Tombesville and New Market, with his flanks well covered with cavalry.

A cavalry fight had occurred in the Shenandoah Valley, in which the Federals claim a victory.

The New York Herald publishes Sherman's order to his army before his march commenced. Howard commands the right wing, consisting of the 15th and 17th corps, Slocum the left, consisting of the 18th and 20th corps. His usual order of march, when ever practicable, will be by four roads as nearly parallel as possible.

Kilpatrick commands the cavalry, and a day's march will be 15 miles. The cavalry will forage on the country, and not destroy property in localities where they are unmolested. Horses, mules, wagons, and able-bodied negroes will be appropriated freely.

A Nashville dispatch of the 24th says that Duck River has been adopted as the Federal line of defence.

A Louisville dispatch of the 25th says Pulaski is evacuated, and a battle was expected at Columbia that day.

The Louisville Journal thinks Breckinridge has his foot on Kentucky and moving in that direction, and Stoneman watching him.

Memphis papers notice the capture of Capt. Ned Montgomery, whilst attempting to cross the Mississippi river with a train of tobacco, and a quarter of a million of Sterling Exchange was found on his person.

NORTHERN ITEMS.

Mrs. Greenhow, the lady who gave the Government so much trouble at the commencement of the war, acting as a rebel spy, was recently drowned in endeavoring to escape from the blockade runner Condor, at New Inlet Bar.

The charter election in Newark, N. J., yesterday, went for the Democrats by a reduced majority. The Union men gained one or two Aldermen and several School Commissioners.

An attack on the passenger train of the Kentucky Central railroad was made by 25 guerrillas, midway between Parsons and Lexington. The engine was thrown from the track, the cars were burned, $2,700 were taken from the Adams' Express Company, and all the passengers were robbed.

Intelligence has been received at headquarters at St. Louis, that Price's army went from California to Booneville, Cooper county, yesterday, and Shelby sent 2,000 cavalry across the Missouri at that point. Fisk has gone to Lexington to take command there. Gen. Sanborn is still pursuing the enemy. Reports were extensively circulated yesterday that Magruder, with 5,000 infantry, had entered Southeast Missouri, and occupied Fredericktown, but they proved to be unfounded. Business is suspended at St. Joseph, the citizens having been called to arms by Gen. Fisk, in anticipation of a visit from Price.

CAPT. WILLIAM BARNES.—The Savannah Republican of a late date, describes an incident which occurred at the capture of Cumberland Gap by the Yankees. Capt. Barnes is a citizen of this place, but now a prisoner of war at Fort Pulaski, and is the hero of our story.

Capt. Barnes commanded a Light Battery at the Gap, and when he was ordered to raise the white flag in token of the surrender, he refused to obey, saying that he had come there to fight, and not surrender, that he believed the position could, as he knew it ought to be, held. The order was repeated, and he again refused to raise the flag over his portion of the work—and when it was raised by one of his subalterns, by command of the Colonel in command, poor Barnes threw away his sword and wept like a child.
